The appellants allege that there are twelve areas things in the comprehensive plan that don't meet the requirements of the Growth Management Act (GMA). Appeals of GMA decisions go to the Growth Management Hearings Board, and they will hold a hearing later this year at which the county and the appellants will argue their cases. The Hearings Board will make findings on each of the allegations, and decide whether or not there's any merit to them. If so, the plan would be sent back to the county for further work. Depending on the outcome, either party could appeal the Hearings Board decisions through the courts. That's pretty much it.

Would you mind explaining what this appeal means and how it will affect moving forward? Thanks
